
most studies have only a finite amount of power and exposure to lead in early life is a powerful determinant of behaviour decades later. Although poorly quantified, such behavioural and social consequences of neuro-

-
- 17 Costa LG. Current issues in organophosphate toxicology.
Clin Chim Acta

